Dr. Ralph M. Crissman began his second year as pastor of the First Presbyterian church yesterday under most favorable conditions. At the morning service an anniversary sermon was preached which was listened to by a large congregation, his subject being "Christ and His Church." He called attention to the need of prayer and patience in carrying out the work of the church, and said that the old gospel was needed in a broad, liberal, sympathetic, aggressive and progressive church. The church is in prosperous condition, and the congregations have not been as large in years.

FREEPORT FIRM GOT BRICK PAVING JOBS

GUND & GRAHAM AWARDED CONTRACTS TO PAVE COMMERCIAL ALLEY.

CITY TO PAVE RIVER STREET

Railroad Companies Agree to Pay One-Third the Cost of the Improvement.

The board of local improvements at a meeting this afternoon awarded the contracts for paving Commercial alley and tributary streets to Gund & Graham of Freeport, their bids on both jobs being the lowest. Three bidders submitted prices on the work the others being Rink & Schnell of this city and the Ford Paving company of Cedar Rapids, Ia.

The proposals on Ordinance No. 144, which provides for East Commercial alley, Ottawa avenue and East First street, were remarkably close, Rink & Schnell being but $10.20 above the successful bidders. The proposals of the three bidders on this work were:

Gund & Graham, $15,524.86.
Rink & Schnell, $15,535.16.
Ford Paving Co., $17,185.26.
The estimate on the work was $16,810.72.

West Commercial Alley.

The bids submitted on the West Commercial alley work, which includes Hennepin and Peoria avenues, were:

Gund & Graham, $7,528.44.
Rink & Schnell, $7,714.30.
Ford Paving Co., $8,332.82.
The estimate on this job was $8,498.87.

More Good News.

The board also received some encouraging news this afternoon when, after a conference with the superintendents of the Northwestern and Illinois Central railroads, Mayor Brinton and City Attorney Keller announced that the railroad companies had agreed to pay one-third of the cost of paving River street through the business section of the city, and urged the city to commence the work as soon as possible. Accordingly the board will at once originate a scheme for improving that thoroughfare.

The Gund & Graham company, who have just completed a big paving contract in Wisconsin, will ship their equipment to Dixon in order to be in readiness to start work upon their Dixon contracts immediately after the necessary ten days after the awarding of the contract has elapsed.

COPS LOST ANOTHER IN TRAGIC GAME

KEWANEE INDEPENDENTS PRESENTED WITH CONTEST YESTERDAY.

THREE STEAL HOME IN INNING

Daring Base Running by the Locals Put the Visitors Up Into the Air.

In a two hour mixture of comedy and tragedy the Dixon Stars dropped another game yesterday afternoon, the Kewanee Independents taking the measure of the Cops, 9 to 7, in a game in which the lead switched from one team to the other several times, and in which for several innings each aggregation seemed determined that the other should be victorious.

For three innings the contest resembled a real ball game. By means of clean hitting the visitors shoved their first man across in the first inning, and the Stars came right back and evened up on Charlie Keenan's three base smash to the river and Joe Keenan's single over second. The second went scoreless, and in the third the locals took the lead on Whitebread's base on balls and successive hits by Curran and Joe Keenan. Two bad errors by Charlie Keenan in the fourth, followed by Johnson's two base bingle gave the visitors two, and then by some daring base running the Stars amassed four runs in their half of the inning. Emmert, Charlie Keenan and Art White bread each stole home in this inning and the visitors went into the air.

Present of Five.

The Independents were presented with five runs in the fifth, five errors and a three base foul, which was called fair, being responsible. After that present the visitors settled down and Dixon's only other score came in the fifth when Larkins hit one into the river for a round trip. The details of the game are exceedingly sad and therefore they will be passed. The score:

SHAILER MATTHEWS IN STRONG SERMON

DELIVERED ELOQUENT ADDRESS AT BAPTIST CHURCH SUNDAY AFTERNOON.

ANNIVERSARY WEEK CLOSED

With a Fine Musical Program by the Choir and Soloists Last Night.

Dean Shailer Matthews was the center of attraction at the 75th anniversary services at the Baptist church yesterday. A large audience greeted him at the 3 p. m. meeting. His address on "Militant Idealism" was crowded full of intense epigrammatic sayings and abounded with flashes of genius characteristic of the speaker. He said, in part, that a prophet, a militant idealist, could hardly be popular. That if one wanted to be popular all he had to do was to treat people well, feed them occasionally and not disagree with them. There are two kinds of heroes, the acute hero and the chronic hero. The acute hero is the one that wins battles when there is a whole nation full of people cheering him on to victory and the chronic hero is the one that remains so when times are dull and unexciting and there is not much doing. The hero that bears the burden and heat of the day when there is nobody in the grandstand to root for him. The heroic prize fighter never relaxes during the fray. If he does he is liable to get a punch that will kill him. One man was recently killed in a prize fight and his manager explained that the cause was due to the fact that he received a punch when his muscles were relaxed.

Dean Matthews said that real militant Christian idealism was found on the mission field more than on the home field. Too often we are just marching or may be just keeping time. But on the frontier fields they have to put up a stiff fight for very existence. He went on to say that we are too comfortable in America. Times are almost too good for rapid progress in religion. He said that it might be a good thing for us to go in to financial bankruptcy if it were not for the fact that there were a lot of rogues who would get rich out of it.

For Church People.

He said that even the church people had about lost all their militant idealism. If it rains on Sunday the ordinary church member says to him self, "Well, I know the good Lord don't want me to get wet in order to go to church, so I guess I will stay home today." If it is a glorious morning in June he reasons thus: "Now I know the good Lord made this day and he fully intended for me to enjoy it so I think I will remain out in the open air and not go to church this morning." Or if the Lord has blessed him with an automobile, he reasons that the good Lord has given him the machine and he must

D. U. H. S. WON AT

ROCHELLE SATURDAY

The Dixon union high school team defeated the Rochelle high school aggregation at Rochelle Saturday in one of the best high school games of the season. The contest went 11 innings but the Dixon boys won, 10 to 6, by shoving four runs across in the last session.

J. B. Williams was in Chicago yesterday.

take a drive, for Sunday is the only free day that he has. And the church which he really loves, for whose cause we might be a real hero, just goes on marking time because the members are out seeking comfort. He explained three attitudes and only three that can be taken toward sin. One way is to enjoy sin by violently indulging in it. Another attitude is to just be indifferent to sin, which he declared was about as bad as to be a real sinner. The third position that one might take and the one that all church people should follow is to assume an attitude of hatred toward sin, to fight it, to kill it. It is not exactly popular to be a wretched sinner, and it is not popular nor safe to fight sin, so most people in this easy going age tend to lay off their fighting clothes and just keep in the middle of the road of indifference. In that way the devil has all the good people cowed down so that his centers of vice flourish all about us.

A large audience greeted Dean Matthews to hear this great address and no one present will soon forget the impression gained of his pulpit genius who does not make his points by poetry and alliterations but just talks common sense.

A part of the afternoon was given to the reading of the remaining messages from pastors that had not been read. Messages were read from the following former pastors, all of whom sent appropriate words of congratulation and greeting: O. P. Bester, J. F. Howard, W. D. Fuller, H. C. Leland, W. C. Spencer, Rolvis Harland and A. A. Mainwaring.

At the morning service a historical sketch of the 75 years of history was read. A good crowd gathered in the evening for the anniversary praise service. An appropriate program of special music was rendered by the choir. R. A. Crawford, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. of Sterling, sang a beautiful and impressive solo. The pastor gave a brief address on the subject, "Glimpses of the Future." With this service the 75th anniversary celebrations which have been so greatly enjoyed by so many came to a close. The closing song, "God Be With You 'Till We Meet Again" was sung most impressively.

Coffee-Kelly Nuptials

The following item from the Dubuque Telegraph-Herald is of special interest to Dixon people from the fact that the bridal party have relatives in Dixon, the bride being a niece of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Fitzgerald of Highland avenue:—

The paper is dated Wednesday, May 28.

At 7 o'clock on Wednesday morning at St. Raphael's Cathedral occurred the marriage of Miss Harriet Mabel, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Coffee, to Joseph G. Kelly of Waterloo.

The sacred words which pledged them man and wife were pronounced in the course of a nuptial mass, solemnized by Father Kerper, and the edifice was well filled with the many friends of the young people throughout the city. The ceremony was devoid of ostentation and was beautiful in the impressiveness of its religious simplicity.

Promptly at 7 o'clock, the bridal party entered the church and proceeded to the chancel where the marriage rites were solemnized. The bridal couple were attended by Miss Evelyn Bergener and Leo Kelley, of Chicago a brother of the groom.

The bride was a picture of radiant girlish loveliness in a tailored suit of blue with an attractive hat, covered with blossoms; her corsage bouquet was an immense cluster of sweet peas fastened with tulle, which added a most pleasing touch to her handsome toilet. Miss Bergener also wore dark blue with a light hat, and a corsage bouquet of marguerites.

Following the service at the church, the bridal party was driven to the home of the bride's parents, 830 bluff street, where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served to immediate relatives only. Pink and white were used throughout the rooms of the home, mounds of sweet peas and marguerites, with strands of smilax, converting the apartments into veritable spring bowers.

Following the repast, the young people were driven to the I. C. station, leaving for the east, where they will spend some time prior to their return to Dubuque where they have taken temporary apartments.

The bride is the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Coffee, and was born and reared in Dubuque. She is a young woman of sweet and endearing disposition and her gentle ways and fine qualities have endeared her to a legion of warm friends whose good wishes for her happy future are as bright and sunny as was her wedding morn.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Kelly of Waterloo, and is a trusted employe of the I. C. road. He was educated at St. Joseph's college, this city, and has many close friends in Dubuque. He is representative of a splendid type of young manhood, and is deserving in every way of his sweet girl bride.

Many costly and handsome wedding presents attested to the high esteem in which the young people are held. Among the out-of-town guests at the happy event were: Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Kelly of Waterloo; Leo Kelly of Chicago; and Vincent Kelly of Waterloo.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelley came to Dixon to the home of her aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald on Highland avenue, for a short visit.

Following was a hand bill which some facetious friends of the young people had printed and sent along with them. It reads thus:—
"Mabel and Joe, JUST MARRIED, Bound for Dixon, Ill. Watch them closely. Old shoes, rice and any old things solicited."

Thursday evening at the Fitzgerald home a reception was held for the bride and groom, and a very delightful evening was spent. There were twenty-five couples present. Music was furnished by Frank Gorham, Miss Marie Gorham, and Morris Rosbrook.

With Bridge
Miss Eells will entertain Thursday with bridge.

Motored to Aurora
Mark Lennox and family and Mr. and Mrs. W. U. Baker motored to Aurora Saturday to spend Sunday as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Will Baker.

At Baldwin Home
Mrs. A. S. Hyde of Chicago was entertained at the home of Prof. and Mrs. Baldwin Friday evening.

MOELLER AFTER THE POSTMASTER
Gus Moeller of this city, a well known and popular democrat, had his petition out for the office of post master of Dixon. He is getting liberal support.

KNOCKED OFF INTERURBAN.
Will Bennett, an employe of the S. D. & E., was seriously hurt when he was brushed from the roof of an interurban car while at work, falling on the brick pavement and sustaining a fractured rib, together with other slighter injuries. He is resting easily today, however.

John Scott of Apple River, Ill., visited here with Mrs. Dora Suggitt and family.

THIN GOWN IS THE DECREE

Idea Certainly a Pretty One, Though There Should Be Much Discretion Exercised in Its Wear.

Paris has decreed that once again the winter gown shall be diaphanous, carried out in chiffon or muslin velvet, or at very thickest crepe de Chine or almost gauzy satin. Except in the severest weather there is something to be said for these dresses, when they are worn by the possessors of magnificent furs. A long fur coat is far too warm to be healthy, if worn over a thick dress, except on very exceptional days.

Unfortunately a fashion may be intended for one class, but it will be copied by others, and the result of such a mode as that of the thin winter gown spells pneumonia for a good many people. However, at least the frocks are pretty, especially when trimmed with fur. Fur and old lace combined are a very fashionable trimming at the moment, although a famous French dressmaker has denounced the mixture as in bad taste, and being bad art.

For the evenings, of course, thin gowns have it all their own way. Even brocades have now been brought to such a degree of lightness and suppleness that they are practically like gauze. Indoor gowns are still being trimmed with pink or pale ground cameos, and they were also seen on hats and coats, so those who possess these fine ornaments can still wear them in this very effective manner.

FAN FADS WORTH COPYING

Handsome Indeed Are Those Which Parisian Women Have Adopted as the Mode for the Season.

As in many other dainty feminine accessories, it is Paris which sends us the prettiest fans. Bewitching little trifles they are, delicate and lovely.

One of the new ideas is to have the fan made with flower-like petals of gauze or chiffon, partially covered with tinsel or remembrance lace. When the materials used are filmy enough, and the sticks of carved ivory or pearl, it is easy to imagine just how pretty such fans are.

Sometimes on the feather fans you will see little butterflies in color, cleverly made from the feathers, and ornamenting the part just above the sticks. And sometimes the butterflies are replaced by small rosebuds in shell pink, or festoons or chenille in round balls.

Very handsome are the fans of chiffon cloth, with hand-painted decorations. There are pastoral scenes in color, and they remind us of the beautiful old French fans of long ago. Frequently these have sticks of the lustrous mother-of-pearl, a fitting finish to the gauze-like tops.

GIVES COLLAR RIGHT TOUCH

Dainty Design of Trailing Flowers and Foliage Makes a Pretty Finish for the Neck.

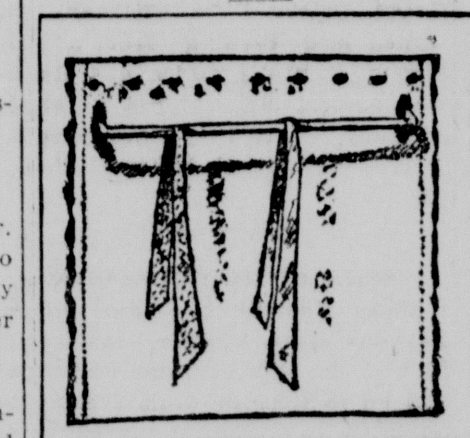

Those who admire dainty neckwear will embroider a collar, using net as a foundation.

Be careful when purchasing the net that you select a firm quality, with not too large a mesh. Cut the collar the desired shape and stamp it with a simple design of trailing flowers and foliage, a festoon of tiny blossoms or a chain of daisy heads arranged one after the other.

Pad the petals and leaves lengthwise with darning cotton and stitch across this, using soft mercerized cotton. Buttonhole stitch the outside edge in scallops and finish with a frill of narrow valenciennes lace.

Bind the neck line with a bias strip of lawn, which slips beneath the dress, insuring a well-fitting collar. A butterfly bow of embroidered net, or a jabot if preferred, gives a dainty finish to the collar.

TIE-RACK CASE

To make a tie-rack case, take two handkerchiefs and join plainly at the lower edges, but sew together at the two perpendicular sides to form little frills. On the upper edge of one handkerchief make a row of tiny button holes to correspond with the buttons on the other edge. Then slip in a board size of handkerchief. The handkerchief representing the front of the case must have large embroidered button hole slits to hold the supports of the nickel tie bar, which may be detached at will from the board thus daintily covered.

Sueded Collar Set.
In every color, but particularly in gray and in vivid scarlet collar, cuff and belt sets are being produced. The material used is suede and the collar and cuffs are of the old-world Round-head pattern.

The collar turns down and the cuffs turn up, while the belt is straight and excessively neat. To be worn with the country tweed or serge suit the new sets are admirably adapted.

COLOR NOTE IS GRAY

IS OBSERVED IN ALL MATERIALS AND GARMENTS.

Moleskin, Supple and Beautiful Fur, Is the Acknowledged Favorite—Revival of Squirrel a Feature of the Season.

Gray, particularly in the soft taupe shades, is the color note of the season, and since violets and satins, cloths and silks are made in gray; since gowns and wraps and suits and hats and gloves and even shoes are gray, then it is no wonder that gray furs promise to hold a prominent position in the winter modes, placing even the sables in second place, for brown furs and grays do not mingle artistically, and only the white furs, which contrast prettily with the gray, or the soft seal which makes a good background for gray trimming, or an occasional dash of jet black in the fur line, will be really appreciated in this overwhelming popularity of the soft taupe tones.

Moleskin, as everyone who grew familiar with this supple and beautiful fur on its introduction last season knows, is the finest of any gray furs. It is exquisite in color and texture; it drapes as readily as soft broadcloth; being made up of tiny skinlets, it is available alike for minute bits of trimming, for sets of every style and size, and for the largest of fur garments; it works readily into combination schemes with other furs or with velvet and chiffon, and it is so costly as to defy any attempt to place it in the class with "common" furs.

In place of the sharply contrasted black and white fox sets which appeared last winter there are now being shown sets of smoked fox and white fox—a skin of each for the scarf and another pair for the muff. Once in a while the grayish fox with a pink tone known a few years ago as rose fox but simply called dyed fox this year is seen. This is particularly beautiful with white costumes.

A direct result of the vogue for gray is the revival of squirrel. It is not every woman who can afford moleskin and gray fox, and as gray furs are imperative a good substitute is necessary—hence the renewed popularity of the inexpensive squirrel. Now when squirrel has been in before this, too often it has appeared in rather ugly guise. This year the "chinchilla squirrel," as it is called, is most used, and in its best forms it is a really attractive fur—soft, prettily colored, and free from the harsh, long, brownish hairs that spoil the appearance of some skins. This chinchilla squirrel makes the daintiest of fur toques and turbans, sets of hat, muff and scarf, and trimming on coats, gowns and suits. Whole coats for motoring and every day wear are, of course, again in vogue.

The popularity of gray has not lessened the demand for ermine among those whose purses will permit of indulgence in this regal and costly fur. Tailless or pure white ermine is first choice, and some of the most distinctive sets introduced this winter are made of tailless ermine—as pictured in the accompanying sketch.

Silk Shade.
An unusually pretty shade is made of a rather dark-green silk, with a sheer white silk used for lining. There is an interlining of rich red silk, so that when the lamp is lighted the effect is that of a changeable silk shade.

CHAPTER XXXVII.

His Great Hour.

Saturday night at eight o'clock. So the fiat had gone forth, with no concession to be made on account of weather.

As Oswald came from his supper and took a look at the heavens from the small front porch, he was deeply troubled that Orlando had remained so obstinate on this point. For there were ominous clouds rolling up from the east, and the storms in this region of high mountains and abrupt valleys were not light, nor without danger even to those with feet well-planted upon mother earth.

If the tempest should come up before eight!

Mr. Challoner, who, from some mysterious impulse of bravado on the part of Brotherson, was to be allowed to make the third in this small band of spectators, was equally concerned at this sight, but not for Brotherson. His fears were for Oswald, whose slowly gathering strength could ill bear the strain which this additional anxiety for his brother's life must impose upon him. As for Doris, she was in a state of excitement more connected with the past than with the future. That afternoon she had laid her hand in that of Orlando Brotherson, and wished him well. She in whose breast still lingered reminiscences of those old doubts which had beclouded his image for her first meeting. She had not been able to avoid it. His look was a compelling one, and it had demanded thus much from her; and a terrible thought to her gentle spirit—he might be going to his death!

It had been settled by the prospective aviator that they were to watch for the ascent from the mouth of the grassy road leading in to the hangar. The three were to meet there at a quarter to eight and await the stroke and the air-car's rise. That time was near, and Mr. Challoner, catching a glimpse of Oswald's pallid and unnaturally drawn features, as he set down the lantern he carried, shuddered with foreboding and wished the hour passed.

Doris' watchful glance never left the face whose lightest change was more to her than all Orlando's hopes. But the result upon her was not to weaken her resolution, but to strengthen it. Whatever the outcome of the next few minutes, she must stand ready to sustain her invalid through it. That the darkness of early evening had deepened to oppression, was unnoticed for the moment. The fears of an hour past had been forgotten. Their attention was too absorbed in what was going on before them, for even a glance overhead.

Suddenly Mr. Challoner spoke. "Who is the man whom Brotherson has asked to go up with him?"

It was Oswald who answered. "He has never told me. He has kept his own counsel about that as about everything else connected with this matter. He simply advised me that I was not to bother about him any more; that he had found the assistant he wanted."

"Such reticence seems unpardonable. You have displayed great patience, Oswald."

"Because I understand Orlando. He reads men's natures like a book. The man he trusts, we may trust. Tomorrow, he will speak openly enough. All cause for reticence will be gone."

"You have confidence then in the success of this undertaking?"

"If I hadn't, I should not be here. I could hardly bear to witness his failure, even in a secret test like this. I should find it too hard to face him afterwards."

"I don't understand."

"Orlando has great pride. If this enterprise fails I cannot answer for him. He would be capable of anything. Why, Doris! what is the matter, child? I never saw you look like that before."

She had been down on her knees regulating the lantern, and the sudden flame, shooting up, had shown him her face turned up toward his in an apprehension which verged on horror.

"Do I look frightened?" she asked, remembering herself and lightly rising. "I believe that I am a little frightened. If—if anything should go wrong! If an accident—" But here she remembered herself again and quickly changed her tone. "But your confidence shall be mine. I will believe in his good angel—or in his self-command and great resolution. I'll not be frightened any more."

But Oswald did not seem satisfied. He continued to look at her in vague concern.

He hardly knew what to make of the intense feeling she had manifested. Had Orlando touched her girlish heart? Had this cold-blooded nature, with its steel-like brilliancy and honorable but stern views of life, moved this warm and sympathetic soul to more than admiration? The thought disturbed him so he forgot the nearness of the moment they were all awaiting till a quick rasping sound from the hangar, followed by the sudden appearance of an ever-widening band of light about its upper rim, drew his attention and awakened them all to a breathless expectation.

The lid was rising. Now it was half-way up, and now, for the first time, it was lifted to its full height and stood a broad oval disk against the background of the forest. The effect was strange. The hangar had been made brilliant by many lamps, and their united glare pouring from its top and illuminating not only the surrounding treetops, but the broad face of this uplifted disk, roused in the awed spectator a thrill such as in mythological times might have greeted the sudden sight of Vulcan's smithy blazing on Olympian hills. But the clang of iron on iron would have attended the flash and gleam of those unexpected fires, and here all was still save for that steady throb never heard in Olympus or the halls of Valhalla, the pant of the motor eager for flight in the upper air.

As they listened in a trance of burning hope which obliterated all else, this noise and all others near and distant, was suddenly lost in a loud clatter of writhing and twisting boughs which set the forest in a roar and seemed to heave the air about them.

A wind had swooped down from the east, bending everything before it and rattling the huge oaks on which their eyes were fixed as though it would tear it from its hinges.

The three caught at each other's hands in dismay. The storm had come just on the verge of the enterprise, and no one might guess the result.

"Will he dare? Will he dare?" whispered Doris, and Oswald answered, though it seemed next to impossible that he could have heard her: "He will dare. But will he survive it? Mr. Challoner," he suddenly shouted in that gentleman's ear, "what time is it now?"

Mr. Challoner, disengaging himself from their mutual grasp, knelt down by the lantern to consult his watch. "One minute to eight," he shouted back.

The forest was now a pandemonium. Great boughs, split from their parent trunks, fell crashing to the ground in all directions. The scream of the wind roused echoes which repeated themselves, here, there and everywhere. No rain had fallen yet, but the sight of the clouds skurrying pell-mell through the glare thrown up from the shed, created such havoc in the already overstrained minds of the three onlookers, that they hardly heeded, when with a clatter and crash which at another time would have startled them into flight, the swaying oval before them was whirled from its hinges and thrown back against the trees already bending under the onslaught of the tempest.

Destruction seemed the natural accompaniment of the moment, and the only prayer which sprang to Oswald's lips was that the motor whose throb yet lingered in their blood though no longer taken in by the ear, would either refuse to work or prove insufficient to lift the heavy car into this seething tumult of warring forces. His brother's life hung in the balance against his fame, and he could not but choose life for him. Yet, as the multitudinous sounds about him yielded for a moment to that brother's shout, and he knew that the moment had come, which would soon settle all, he found himself staring at the elliptical edge of the hangar, with an anticipation which held in it as much terror as joy, for the end of a great hope or the beginning of a great triumph was compressed into this trembling instant and it—

Great God! he sees it! They all see it! Plainly against that portion of the disk which still lifted itself above the further wall, a curious moving mass appears, lengthens, takes on shape, then shoots suddenly aloft, clearing the encircling tops of the bending, twisting and tormented trees, straight into the heart of the gale, where for one breathless moment it whirled madly about like a thing distraught, then in slow but triumphant obedience to the master hand that guides it, steadies and mounts majestically upward till it is lost to their view in the depths of impenetrable darkness.

Orlando Brotherson has accomplished his task. He has invented a mechanism which can send an air-car straight up from its mooring place. As the three watchers realize this, Oswald utters a cry of triumph, and Doris throws herself into Mr. Challoner's arms. Then they all stand transfixed again, waiting for a descent which may never come.

But hark! a new sound, mingling its clatter with all the others. It is the rain. Quick, maddening, drenching, it comes; enveloping them in wet in a moment. Can they hold their faces up against it?

And the wind! Surely it must toss that aerial messenger before it and fling it back to earth, a broken and despoiled toy.

"Orlando?" went up in a shriek. "Orlando?"

Oh, for a ray of light in those far-off heavens! For a lull in the tremendous sounds shivering the heavens and shaking the earth! But the tempest rages on, and they can only wait, five minutes, ten minutes, looking, hoping, fearing, without thought of self and almost without thought of each other, till suddenly as it had come, the rain ceases and the wind, with one final wail of rage and defeat, rushes away into the west, leaving behind it a sudden silence which, to their terrified hearts, seems almost more dreadful to bear than the accumulated noises of the moment just gone.

Orlando was in that shout of natural forces, but he is not in this stillness. They look aloft, but the heavens are void. Emptiness is where life was. Oswald begins to sway, and Doris, remembering him now and him only, has thrown her strong young arm about him, when—what is this sound they hear high up, high up, in the rapidly clearing vault of the heavens! A throb—a steady pant—drawing near and yet nearer—entering the circle of great branches over their heads—descending, slowly descending—till they catch another glimpse of those hazy outlines which had no sooner taken shape than the car disappeared from their sight within the elliptical wall open to receive it.

It had survived the gale! It has reentered its haven, and that, too, without colliding with aught around or any shock to those within, just as Orlando had promised; and the world was henceforth his! Hail to Orlando Brotherson!

Oswald could hardly restrain his mad joy and enthusiasm. Bounding to the door separating him from this conqueror of almost invincible forces, he pounded it with impatient fist. "Let me in!" he cried. "You've done the trick, Orlando, you've done the trick."

"Yes, I have satisfied myself," came back in studied self-control from the other side of the door; and with a quick turning of the lock, Orlando stood before them.

They never forgot him as he looked at that moment. He was drenched, battered, palpitating with excitement; but the majesty of success was in his eye and in the bearing of his incomparable figure.

As Oswald bounded towards him, he reached out his hand, but his glance was for Doris.

"Yes," he went on, in tones of suppressed elation, "there's no flaw in my triumph. I have done all that I set out to do. Now—"

Why did he stop and look hurriedly back into the hangar? He had remembered Sweetwater, Sweetwater, who at that moment was stepping carefully from his seat in some remote portion of the car. The triumph was not complete. He had meant—

But there his thought stopped. Nothing of evil, nothing even of regret should mar his great hour. He was a conqueror, and it was for him now to reap the joy of conquest.

REPUBLICANS ARE GETTING TOGETHER

The republican national executive committee at its meeting in Washington Saturday, resolved to call a meeting of the whole national committee within sixty days after the adjournment of the special session to congress "to take such action as it may deem advisable for the general good of the party."

It was also decided to open headquarters in Washington at once for co-operation with the republican congressional committee in preparation for the campaign of 1914, which in one-third of the states will include the election of senators as well as the members of the house.

All votes in the committee were unanimous, and entire harmony prevailed. The decisions reached were accepted as satisfactory by Senator Jones, who represents the "progressive" wing, and even by Senator Cummins who has been the chief promoter of the national convention for this year to "reorganize the party."

What the action taken means is that the national committee, when it meets, will take steps to make the representation of the several states in the national convention proportionate to the number of republican votes cast in each state. This will mean, of course, a great reduction, for the time at least, in southern representation.

Apparently the Southern leaders acquiesce in this necessary reform, which but for Mr. Roosevelt would have been put into effect in 1908. It is only fair and logical that the states by which republican presidents are elected should select the candidate. But for Mr. Roosevelt's obstruction in 1908 we should not have had the situation on which the party split in 1912.

Saturday's proceedings showed that harmony prevails among the "progressive" and "conservative" wings; that there is a disposition on all sides to yield on points which might result in continued division, and that all factions are reuniting under the leadership of the existing national committee.

The plain truth is that the democratic party with the Woodrow Wilson tariff bill, is providing the country with the sort of an issue that for some years has not been presented.

It is raising an issue that is not merely the idea of a section, or of a school of thought, or of a group of citizens. It is raising an issue of prosperity and adversity for the whole country that comes home to every citizen's business and every citizen's fireside.

Republicans are again seeing something on which they can get together to fight for and against. They fight for American prosperity and against doctrinaire meddlers with the foundations of that prosperity. Aroused by that challenge, republicans are forgetting their quarrels over minor matters and are getting together for victory in 1914 and 1918.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

ASKS BUSINESS OF ALL SENATORS

Committee Extends Scope of Its Inquiry Upon Lobby Question.

SEEK HASTE UPON TARIFF

Democratic Plan to Work Hard and Prevent Delay by Republicans—Vote in Senate Predicted for August 1.

Washington, June 2.—Tariff and currency reform went into eclipse today, when the senate subcommittee on the judiciary committee began its hearings in its hunt for "the numerous and insidious lobby" which President Wilson has said is at work threatening legislation, and it is believed the most searching inquiry ever undertaken into the private affairs and business connections of members of the United States senate will be the outgrowth of the investigation.

While President Wilson's recent declaration that a powerful lobby is at work attempting to influence action on the tariff bill forms the basis for the senate investigation, questions prepared by the committee, to be asked of each member of the senate, are such as to carry the investigation far outside of tariff matters.

Each senator will be required to tell under oath whether he has any interest in any matter affected by any bill now before congress or that has been before the senate during his term, and whether or not he has ever tried to influence any other senator to vote for a measure in which he was interested.

Outline Eleven Formal Questions.

Senators Overman, Reed, Walsh, Cummins and Nelson are the subcommittee conducting the investigation. This subcommittee has decided to summon all members of the senate, beginning alphabetically and calling four senators at a time. Each senator will be put under oath and required to answer eleven formal questions prepared by the committee and further questions that members may ask. The first two questions, which are expected to disclose any interest members of the senate may have in legislation before that body, are as follows:

"Please state whether or not you are financially interested in the production, manufacture or sale of any article mentioned in the tariff bill or any other bill now pending in congress or which has been considered during your term as senator; if so, state fully the nature and extent of such interest and whether you ever sought to influence any other senator as to the duties upon such articles."

"Please state whether you represent or are connected, professionally or otherwise, directly or indirectly, with any person, firm, association, corporation or organization which is engaged in the manufacture, production or sale of any article named in the tariff bill now pending in congress; if so, state whether you ever sought to influence any other senator as to the duties upon such articles."

Plans Haste on Tariff.

"Make the Republicans work" is the cry adopted by the Democratic leaders of the senate in charge of tariff legislation, who predict that the senate would vote on the bill by August 1.

How this could be accomplished, Senator Smith of Georgia said, would be demonstrated when the debate began.

"We will keep the Republicans who want to discuss the bill working, and we will keep at work ourselves from the beginning," he said. "We will meet in the senate every day at ten o'clock in the morning and keep at work until six o'clock at night. That will prevent the opposition from delaying the bill by playing with it. We will tire the Republicans out of playing."

It was made evident that the fight among the Democrats on the wool and sugar schedules of the bill would be concluded in the caucus and that this would leave Senators Ransdell and Thornton of Louisiana to vote against the bill because of their opposition to the sugar schedule and Senator Walsh to oppose it because of free raw wool.

NEW PARTIES FORMING SAYS SEN. SHERMAN

ASSERTS CONSERVATIVES, LIBERAL-PROGRESSIVES AND RADICAL DIVISIONS.

WARNS OF FUTILE CHANGES

Declares Democratic Income Tax Plan May Promote Class Legislation

Declaring that a political transformation of great magnitude is in progress, and that in the future of American politics "what a man believes will mean more than what he calls himself," Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman of Illinois, in an interview outlined his views of the issues and alignment that soon will prevail.

In the reorganization of affairs Senator Sherman expects to see three parties—the conservative, the liberal-progressive, and the radical.

He believes that out of the present effort to reorganize the republican party, if success attends, will come the liberal-progressive party.

Some Radicals Futile.

Contrasting liberal progressivism with radicalism, he said there were some men who are "unable to distinguish between motion and progress; who never know the difference between starting something and getting some place and who represent in the human family what the dog chasing his tail does in canine circles."

After characterizing as an economic dream the Socialistic idea of equality and declaring that the antidote is a society and government of regulated individualism, he said:

"As against this dream of economic equality a system built on human nature as it exists here. It does not support measures that are 100 years ahead of the times. It does not cling blindly to measures that are 100 years behind the times."

Want Unhindered Courts

"The political party that represents justice administered by courts that apply the law as it is, by judges that will not be taken from the bench and thrust into a tumultuous campaign to vindicate their decisions under the law of the land, is here. A representative government in other departments, with appeals to the people on only vital and elemental subjects—will be beliefs of one great body of voters."

"This body will believe in a protective tariff. Its members feel that this is our country; its work and wages and markets belong to our people. Its standard of home building and home keeping will be distinctively American."

Unified Monetary Laws

"It will provide a uniform and simplified system of monetary laws. It will make available safe credit currency to meet the expanding needs incident upon markets, prices and distribution over a wide and varied country such as ours. It will take a heed to the wants of our navy."

earner, of the organized laborer, of his share of the wealth that he creates. It will advocate a just arbitration law, when awards based upon the rights of both elements in the dispute will supplant strikes, boycotts, walkouts and blacklists. The same body of thought will develop industrial insurance as a substitute for law suits when an employee is injured or killed in the line of service.

"This body of voters will be conservative in thought to the point where progress can be demonstrated by substituting better things for those we now have."

Sees Class Legislation

"There is a disposition to use the newly created constitutional power of the income tax to advance class legislation. Every single taxer is active. They see great possibilities in the income tax to classify property so as to promote the single tax."

The income tax proposed in the Underwood bill is limited to the excess over $4000. Inquiry is now on foot looking to a lower limit. The difficulty will be to fix a limit that will be satisfactory. We must remember that a great multitude of people have very small incomes. They will never be taxed. All, however, have votes.

Warning for Democrats

Votes finally make the division. Here is the Socialists' opportunity. There is to be a constant hacking of property in private hands. What is now called the democratic party must set a brake on itself, otherwise it will be committed to class legislation and the destruction of private property by the power of taxation.

"The vice of the initiative and referendum when unlimited is that it breaks down all constitutional safeguards. This reaches beyond property rights and becomes graver. Rights of persons may be attacked and destroyed in the same way. No constitutional provision is to be sacred from its assaults. A minority will be helpless. If they become a majority in turn they can oppress their oppressors."

Lamphole. The lamphole herein provided for shall be constructed by connecting with the sewer pipe of the main a similar sewer pipe of like kind and quality by means of a "T" connection. Such sewer pipe shall be placed vertically and shall extend from the sewer to the grade of the street above. At the proper grade a "T" connection shall be placed to receive the pipe of the upper portion of the main sewer. The upper end of the said lamphole shall be stopped with a vitrified tile stopper of suitable size securely fastened with cement. All joints in such lamphole shall be connected in the same manner as the joints of other sewer pipe herein specified and the top of such lamphole shall be protected by a substantial cast iron ring and cover securely placed on a foundation of brick laid in cement mortar and extending not less than two feet below the grade of the street.

Excavations. All trenches shall be vertical and made of sufficient width to be at least eight inches wider in the clear than the outside measure of the socket of the sewer pipe. Trenches must be made in open cut. Tunneling will be allowed only by special permission of the Board of Local Improvements. Trenches must when necessary be properly protected against caving or sliding, by braces and sheeting. Any sheeting left in permanently by order of the Board of Local Improvements (and only such) will be paid for, at the actual current cost of the lumber. When left in the trench, sheeting shall be cut off a foot below the surface of the street.

The excavations for manholes shall be wide enough so that a space of at least four inches will be clear between the outside wall and the excavation or protection thereof.

Excavated material shall be deposited in such a way as to be of the least obstruction possible to the public and to adjoining property owners.

A space of two feet wide along the side of the trench where the engineer's stakes are located shall be kept free from obstruction.

No material will be allowed to be piled within five feet of any fire hydrant.

The Laying of the Pipe. All pipe shall be laid exactly to grade and line as provided in this ordinance.

Pipes must be sounded and inspected, and in addition thereto the Board of Local Improvements may order that the same be fitted and matched before being lowered into the trench. No trimming of pipes or specials will be allowed, and all imperfect material will be rejected and must be immediately removed from the line of the sewer.

Pipe must not be laid except in the presence of the inspector, and any so laid may be ordered removed and relaid.

Before any pipe or special is to be put in place a small excavation must be made in the bottom of the previously graded trench, to receive the projecting portion of the hub or socket, so that the pipe may have a firm and uniform bearing for its entire length, upon said graded bottom. The joints between the individual pipes, or pipes and specials, shall in all cases be made water-tight, by completely filling out the annular space between the exterior of the spigot and the interior of the socket with cement mortar; and a neat and proper finish shall be given to the joint upon the face of the hub and socket.

It shall be at the discretion of the Board of Local Improvements to order the use of a narrow gasket which shall be properly pressed into each joint before the mortar is applied. But no extra compensation will be allowed, the same being included in the price paid per lineal foot of sewer.

Blind Ends. The last socket of lateral branches, or any stub of un-built sewer at a manhole or elsewhere, shall be closed with a clay stopper and made water-tight with cement mortar. A strip of board two or three inches wide shall be stood in the trench at the curb end of each lateral, extending to the surface of the ground.

The said curb ends of each lateral must not be covered until the exact position thereof has been measured and recorded by the engineer.

Wiping Sewer. All pipe as soon as laid is to be cleaned by the use of a sand bag or other suitable appliance.

Protection of Sewer While Laying. Before leaving the work during a storm, or for the night, or for any other reason, care must be taken that the unfinished end of the sewer or lateral is securely closed with tight-fitting plug. Any material that may find entrance into the sewer through an open end or an unplugged branch is to be removed at the contractor's expense. The cost of such plugs and the labor connected therewith is to be merged in the regular price bid for the work per lineal foot.

Storm Water Inlets. Storm water inlets, of ten inch vitrified tile, laid below the top of the curb at the gutter end, and not less than four feet in the ground at the manhole end, and trapped with a running trap next to the manhole, shall be constructed from the manholes in the various street intersections by means of suitable specials.

Concrete Inlet Bulk-Heads. Neatly finished concrete bulk-heads shall be built in the gutter, at the inlet openings, to embed the upper end of the tile used in carrying storm-water to the sewer. Unless otherwise ordered, these shall be three feet in width across the gutter, two feet in depth, built to the height of the curb, and nine inches in thickness.

Test. When sewer is completed the interior floor thereof shall be exactly to grade and the line given by the engineer. Sewer construction will not be accepted by the City of Dixon unless (wherever the sewer is built in a straight line) a light applied at a manhole or lamphole can be clearly and plainly seen through the sewer from the next manhole.

Back-Filling. The back-filling of the trenches shall be done with shovels and the refilled earth shall be compacted thoroughly. Unless otherwise expressly permitted, this shall be done by tamping, and the layers shall not exceed six inches between tamplings.

Restoring Pavement. If opening the street for this improvement necessitates the removal from the street of a coat of macadam, this material shall be kept separate from the excavated earth, and after the construction of the sewer and the proper refilling of the trench with earth, the said macadam material shall be placed thereon and tamped into conformity with the remaining surface of the street.

In the month of April following the completion of the sewer and at any prior time it may become necessary, the Contractor shall again go over the line of the sewer and laterals and wherever any settlement has occurred, shall again fill the trenches, tamping such filling until thoroughly compacted and again restoring the street surface to its original condition.

Equipment. For this improvement the contractor shall furnish all necessary machinery, all materials, shall pump, ball or otherwise remove any water found or accumulating in the trenches and shall perform all the work necessary to keep them clear of water while the foundation and the brick work are being constructed or the sewer laid.

Use of Sewer. Water shall not be allowed to run through the sewer until the cement is satisfactorily hardened.

Condition of Street When Work Is Completed. When work is completed, all surplus materials, earth, rubbish, etc., shall be removed and the street surface repaired and left in as good condition in all respects as at the beginning of the work.

Measurement. In measuring the length of sewer, no deductions will be made for manholes and lampholes.

Final Inspection. Upon notification by the contractor of the completion of the work, the Board of Local Improvements, assisted by the engineer, will carefully inspect the sewer, its appurtenances, and any other work done by the contractor in connection therewith, and if it is found that the work does not comply with these specifications, it should be brought to the proper condition at the expense of the contractor. But if it be found, after uncovering the pipe or any other work, that no defects exist, or that the defect, if any, was not due to the fault of the contractor, then the expense of this examination shall be borne by the city.

I had backache a great deal and pains across my loins. My kidneys did not act regularly and I felt miserable in every way. Finally I used Doan's Kidney Pills procured at Leake Bros. Co's. Drug Store and they did good work, relieving me I keep them in the house and whenever I take them, they help me."

Dixon, June 2 1913.

Wheat: Opening was firm but soon scattered reports of rains in dry districts started selling and decline of 1-4 to 1-2, July weakest. Visible showed decrease at all points and total is about 7,000,000 larger than last year. Clearances exceptionally heavy and totaled over million and a quarter. Prices appear firm irrespective of new crop news and if official confirmation of today's reports of rain in southwest do not appear the market should rally as under such conditions it would be found over-sold.

Corn: Early rally but weaker tone and final prices lower than Saturday Country offerings fair. Receipts 860 cars, wanted by both industries and shippers. Fresh eastern demand not heavy. Argentine shipping more than last year from smaller crop, indicating shortage abroad. Domestic stock at low figures. We see nothing to justify any exceptional strength at present.

Oats: Good rains helped in Iowa, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, prices advancing early. Toward last prices show slight loss. The visible supply showed a large increase which is rather exceptional for this time of year. With outlook for crop good, we do not feel further advance justified.

Provisions: On good hog run and lower prices at the yards prices of product were lower early. Good buying at decline led by interests that to be acting for packers, causing advance. Cash trade said to be improving and estimate is for moderate movement of hogs tomorrow. On good declines provisions appear safe investment.

JAPAN'S REPLY SOON

Cables Kept Busy Framing Answer for Bryan This Week.

Not Thought Mikado's Government Will Ask for Exclusion Code—Canada Act Held Example.

Washington, June 2.—According to present plans Japan will submit to the state department at an early day a rejoinder to Secretary Bryan's answer to the Japanese protest against the alien land legislation adopted by the California legislature.

This was made known here, but without any suggestion as to the probable contents of the note. There have been numerous cable exchanges between the Japanese embassy here and the foreign office in Tokyo, necessitated by the demands the latter for exact information as to American national and state laws regarding alien land ownership and naturalization.

Notwithstanding the pressure from certain quarters at home, however, it is regarded as doubtful that the Japanese embassy has concluded to turn to a request for amendment of the American naturalization laws as a solution of the present issue between the two countries. The successful treatment by the Canadian parliament of complaints from British Columbia of the competition of Japanese, however, has attracted the attention of the negotiations on both sides in this country.

As the underlying principle of the Canadian legislation is separation of the two races in the interest of permanent peace, to be attained through absolute exclusion of all but the traveling and student classes, it was suggested that a similar remedy might be found to fit the present issue in America.

It was pointed out that the representatives of Japan in Canada made no objection to the Canadian legislation.

Indications point to a judicial test of the California land law as soon as possible after August 1, when it will go into operation.

SEEKS TO REDUCE ALIENS

Dillingham to Submit Bill to Cut Down Immigration.

Washington, June 2.—Senator Dillingham, former chairman of the immigration committee, will introduce a bill, which, if enacted into law, will materially reduce immigration from Southern and Eastern Europe and Western Asia. The bill is similar in many respects to the Dillingham-Burnett bill, which was vetoed by President Taft at the last session of congress on the ground that it provided for the exclusion of illiterate immigrants.

The literary test for immigrants is omitted from the present bill.

SLAYS NEIGHBOR IN DUEL

Arkansas Farmers Resort to Shotgun After Failing Out.

Texarkana, Ark., June 2.—In an impromptu duel with shotguns between Wiley Hillis and William Barlow, neighboring farmers, near Malta, 30 miles southwest of here, the latter received a full charge of buckshot in the chest and neck and died two hours later. Hillis escaped unhurt, although it is said Barlow got in the first shot, but his aim was bad. The men had been friends for years, but recently fell out over a business settlement. Hillis surrendered to the sheriff.

ROOSEVELT WINS IN LIBEL SUIT

Editor Newett Admits He Is Convinced That the Charge
Was False.

WITNESS HUNT A FAILURE

Colonel Asks Judge to Instruct Jury to Assess Nominal Damages and Is Awarded Six Cents—No Costs.

Marquette, Mich., June 2.—Theodore Roosevelt won his libel suit against George A. Newett, editor of the Ishpeming Iron Ore. Damages, however, were only nominal—six cents—made possible by the attitude of the colonel, who told the court he did not seek a punitive verdict.

Judge Flannigan instructed the jurors to bring in a verdict for the plaintiff, which they did without leaving their seats. The colonel left for the east less than two hours after the conclusion of the case.

Newett Retracts Charge.
As a climax of the case which has been on trial here a week, Mr. Newett himself took the witness stand and retracted the charge he had made.

He said he had been impressed that an injustice had been done the colonel in the publication of the article and deeply regretted it.

"It is fair to the plaintiff," he said, "to state that I have been unable to find in any section of the country any individual witness who is willing to state that he has personally seen Mr. Roosevelt drink to excess. I am forced to the conclusion that I was mistaken."

Search for Proof Vain.
The statement admitted that a search of the country had been made to investigate stories of persons who were alleged to have knowledge that Mr. Roosevelt drank to excess, but in every case the stories flattened out to mere opinion or hearsay.

The libel was published in good faith, Mr. Newett said, in the belief that it was true and proper information for a public which was being asked to vote for Mr. Roosevelt for president. That is was true, the defense said, he never questioned until the libel trial opened. Until the colonel's evidence began to be presented he held full belief that the charge he had made was true.

No demand for a retraction ever had been made upon him, Mr. Newett said, and when the bill was filed against him there was nothing left for him to do but seek evidence and make other preparations to contest the suit. Forty persons were taken by Mr. Newett's counsel in various parts of the country, but to use them, or attempt to use them, he said, would be to continue an injustice which had already become apparent to him and to his attorneys.

Statement Made By Colonel.
Leaving the stand and returning to his seat, Mr. Newett looked in the direction of Colonel Roosevelt, but the latter was absorbed in whispering to Attorney Van Rensselaer. The latter whispered in turn to Attorney Pound and he turned to Judge Flannigan and said:

"With the court's permission the plaintiff would like to make a brief announcement."

The judge nodded and Mr. Roosevelt rose. Bowing to the court, the colonel said he would waive the matter to damages save for the nominal amount provided by law. Speaking of his purpose in instituting suit, he said:

"Your honor, in view of the statement of the defendant, I ask the court to instruct the jury that I desire only nominal damages."

"I did not go into this case for money. I did not go into it for any vindictive purpose."

"I went into it, and, as the court said, I made my reputation an issue because I wished once for all during my lifetime thoroughly and comprehensively to deal with these slanders so that never again will it be possible for any man in good faith to repeat them."

"I have achieved my purpose and I am content."

Nominal damages means six cents under the laws of Michigan and no costs. Each party to the suit will pay the expenses of his side of the case.

Charge Read by Judge.
Judge Flannigan then read his charge to the jury.

Speaking of Colonel Roosevelt, as the plaintiff, Judge Flannigan said: "Certainly he has convinced the court, not only that he never drank, but that he is now and always has been a temperate and abstemious man."

At the same time the court held that Mr. Newett, in publishing the editorial, "was not actuated by actual ill will toward the plaintiff, and that he acted in good faith."

But, the court held, the injury to the plaintiff had the colonel not waived his right to damages, would have sustained a verdict in any sum up to the amount claimed in the plaintiff's declaration, which is $10,000.

Colonel Shakes Jurors' Hands.
As soon as William H. Matthews, a miner, thirty-one years old, foreman of the jury, reported the verdict as directed by the judge court adjourned and Colonel Roosevelt stepped forward and shook the hand of each juror.

"I thank you, gentlemen, each one of you," said the colonel. "It was splendid, just perfectly splendid."
